WELCOME

Eating Fast Food Doesn't Mean You Have to Give Up Your Goals.

Life gets busy.

Some days you don't have time to cook.

Whether you're at work, traveling, running errands, or simply need something quick, fast food is often the most convenient option.

The good news?

You can still make choices that support your health and fitness goals.

This guide takes the guesswork out of ordering by showing you healthier options from America's most popular fast food chains.

No complicated nutrition labels.

No calorie counting.

Just simple, smarter choices.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

FAST FOOD RULES

These five habits will help you make better decisions almost anywhere.

PRIORITIZE PROTEIN

Choose meals with plenty of protein to stay fuller for longer.

DON'T DRINK YOUR CALORIES

Choose water, sparkling water, unsweetened tea, black coffee, or diet soda.

SKIP THE EXTRAS

Fries, chips, cookies, and sugary drinks can easily double your meal's calories.

WATCH PORTIONS

Fast food portions are often larger than you need. Eat until you're satisfied-not stuffed.

CONSISTENCY WINS

One fast food meal won't ruin your progress. Making smarter choices consistently is what matters.
